Victims are never required to report to the police. If the victim chooses to make a police report, the College will assist.

US Department of Justice/Office of Violence Against Women

Making No Report

Victims have the right not to make a report to anyone

But the College strongly encourages victims to seek medical attention, counseling and support

Victims are always welcome to make a report at a later date, but delays in reporting tend to weaken the evidence necessary to determine whether the accused is found responsible for engaging in prohibited conduct.
